

Dr Jade Elizabeth French works on ageing, care, and intergenerationality. She is currently a Vice Chancellor's Independent Research Fellow at Loughborough University developing the project on care homes and post-war literature. Previously, she was a research fellow as part of the ESRC-funded project 'Reimagining the future in Older Age'. She has written on modernism and ageing in articles for Feminist Modernist Studies, Women: A Cultural Review and Modernism/modernity Print Plus.