

Bodil H. Blix (RN, MSc, PhD) is Professor in the Department of health and care sciences, Faculty of health sciences, at UiT The arctic university of Norway and Adjunct Professor at the Western Norway University of Applied Sciences. Her research interests are in the intersections of narrative inquiry and critical gerontology. She is interested in the lives and stories of older adults in general and Indigenous older adults in particular.